

I completed my Bachelors of Science degree in Environmental Engineering at the University of New Hampshire in 2017, and started at Underwood Engineers shortly after. I grew up in southern New Hampshire, but greatly enjoy exploring the outdoors up in the White Mountains where my family frequently takes vacations. While I am not working, I like to spend time taking my dog, Layla, on hikes, going mountain biking on local trails, skiing, and playing the occasional pick-up basketball game. I also enjoy venturing to new places on the weekends and discovering local unique craft breweries with my friends
