

Bob is a construction junkie. He has been around heavy construction since his childhood and loves working on complex construction projects. He is also an avid skier having raced in high school and college. He lives in Newmarket with his wife Katrina. His two children live in the Seacoast area and have blessed him with 2 grandchildren. In Newmarket he has been an EMT on the Fire Department for more than 35 years. He serves on the Zoning Board and on the Highway, Public Works and Safety Committee and has been on numerous other committees and boards over the years. He has an excellent appreciation for issues facing municipal government in New England. In his spare time, he continues to work on his 250-year-old center chimney Colonial home.
